To Advertisers.—The VERMONT DAILY TRANSCRIPT has the largest circulation in St. Albans and in Franklin County, of any daily paper, and is on that account, in no other, the best medium for advertising.

Local Items.

Interesting matter, original or selected, may always be found on the first page.

OUR DAILY.—Those wishing to secure copies of our daily paper can do so at Merrifield's and Baker's bookstores, as well as of carriers, and at the office. Copies of our weekly paper may also be had at these places.

BRIEFS.—Rev. H. P. Cushing, Secretary of the Order of the Good Templars in Vermont, has arrived in town, and will deliver a public lecture in the Methodist Church, at the hour already announced in the columns of the TRANSCRIPT, 7 o'clock.

Nasby delivers his lecture "Cursed be Canaan," in Bennington, on the evening of the 2nd of December. Would it not be well for the lecture committee of St. Albans to ascertain if the ex-P.M. could not be induced to deliver the lecture here on the 3d or 4th of that month?

Our Dry Goods merchants have pretty generally filled their stores with a good stock of fall and winter goods. We would particularly mention Messrs. H. C. Post & Co., Stone & Foster, W. E. and S. H. Lewis, Breck & Wetherbee and Robert Kingsley, all of whom sustain a good reputation for fair and upright dealing.

We had a very pleasant call this forenoon from Luther O. Greene, Esq., editor and proprietor of the Woodstock Standard. Mr. Greene, who is postmaster at Woodstock, has one of the best appointed newspapers and job offices in the State, and is, we are glad to know, doing a flourishing business.

The sale of Mr. Perkins' Household property, advertised in our columns, will commence at 9 o'clock a. m. on the 21st.

Capt. C. H. Parsons, who removed, two or three years ago, from St. Albans to West Virginia, was on the 3d inst. elected State's Attorney for Putnam County. We are glad to hear of the success of Capt. P., political and otherwise.

DEATH OF GOV. ROYCE.—We regret to announce the death of ex-Governor Royce, which sad event occurred at his residence, in East Berkshire, on Wednesday morning, Nov. 11, about noon. His funeral will take place on Sunday at 11 o'clock, a. m. when a sermon will be preached by his pastor, the Rev. F. Wadleigh. Gov. Royce had reached the 82d year of his age, and died full of honors and greatly lamented. A fuller obituary notice will appear in a future number of the TRANSCRIPT.

RANDOLPH NORMAL SCHOOL.—Fifteen candidates were examined for graduation in the first course of study at the Randolph Normal School last week. Of these, twelve passed and were graduated; three failed to pass. At the same time two were examined for graduation in the second course of study, both of whom passed and were graduated.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE IN BENNINGTON.

The hotel in Bennington known as Mount Anthony House, together with a large portion of its contents, was consumed by fire on the evening of the 12th inst. The fine new block adjoining, owned by P. W. Park was damaged to the extent of about $4,000, and was saved from destruction only by the persistent efforts of the firemen and citizens. Several persons were slightly injured in endeavoring to save property. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

CONGRESS.—The Senate and House of Representatives were on Tuesday called to order by their respective officers, merely to be formally adjourned without day. But five or six members of either House were present.

PATENTS.—On the 10th inst. patents were issued to the following Vermonters: George Wells and S. A. Haynes, of Island Pond, for improved mowing; Colby Brothers, of Waterbury, assignees by mesne assignments of Harvey March, for improved mop head. Patented June 14, 1862, and extended for seven years from June 14, 1857. Reissued June 2, 1858. Luke Taylor of Springfield, for improved mop head. Patented Feb. 15, 1859.

VENERABLE RELIC.—The Times says that during the progress of testing down an old chimney in the house now belonging to Mrs. Johnson of Essex, recently, a fur hat of the stove-pipe style, containing an old-style blue and white home made linen handkerchief, was found buried in the hollow portion of the chimney. The hat was in a good state of preservation and after a burial of sixty-five years is now in style again. The chimney was very large, containing four fire-places and was built in 1803, as was determined by marks on the brick. The house was built and occupied for many years by David Tyler one of the early settlers of the town. The handkerchief is now possession of Miss Maria Tyler, a descendant of the family.

It is stated that the Pill Box Manufactory in Wolcott is the largest but one of the kind of the world.

COLD COMFORT.—The Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser affords aid and comfort to office-seekers under President Grant after the following manner:

"Letters and telegraphic dispatches from all parts of the country are pouring in on him. Most of them claim to have been original Grant men and want an office. It may be interesting to such persons, as well as to the country at large, to know that all letters are opened by one of the staff officers, and those asking for offices or money are destroyed as soon as their purpose is ascertained. This morning about three hundred letters were on hand. The staff officer charged with the duty of opening got along with his work at the rate of about one per minute. Of the first hundred opened, Gen. Grant did not look at a single one. About twenty relating to army affairs or private soldiers' matters were reserved for further examination, while the seventy-five or eighty from office-seekers were at once torn into pieces and thrown into the waste-paper basket. Those persons, therefore, who propose writing about that little post office of assessorship, may as well save their time, paper, ink and postage for letters, whether marked "private," "personal," or "confidential," will invariably be destroyed by the staff officer whose duty it is to examine them, and Gen. Grant will not even know that they have been received. He has nothing to do with office-giving until next spring, and does not intend to be bored with the matter until it is necessary that he should be."

ELECTION INCIDENT.—We clip the following from the Rutland Independent:

Election in No. 2, at Castleton, last Tuesday, came off as follows, and was full as funny as the one you related in the Independent, concerning the individual who was laboring under a spirit of difficulty, so much so that he was exceedingly troubled to get to the polls to vote. It appears that the ballot box was turned a few minutes before sundown, and just at that time, or soon after, a load of voters came from West Castleton, or from that part of the town. As they were from that locality, it was supposed they would all vote the Seymour and Blair ticket, accordingly a few of the democrats began to make a fuss because the box was turned before sundown, and said that it was done on purpose to prevent this party from voting, and that there would be trouble if the polls were not opened again so the men could vote. Finally they were permitted to vote, and after turning the box and counting the ballots, it was announced that six of them were for Grant and Colfax and two for Seymour and Blair. You can readily fancy the feelings of Seymour's friends as they turned on their heels and left the hall, thinking no doubt, that they had sold themselves cheap.

We are surprised occasionally to see children wearing shoes ragged at the toes, wasting their parents' money, besides endangering their health, when so small an expense as the copper or silver tips will obviate the difficulties.—N. Y. Post.

Legislature of Vermont—1868.

WEDNESDAY NOV. 11.

HOUSE.

AFTERNOON.

Mr. Grover, of Wells, followed Mr. Park and said it was well known that on the line of any railroad became identified in the interests of that particular road so far as to deem any measure which they regarded as inimical to the road as a personal matter. He said he was a resident on the Rutland and Washington road, and avowed his prejudice for that road. He then referred to the information that had been made by Mr. Park that the opponents of this had had employed lobbyists to influence the action of the Legislature, saying that Mr. Park was a man that liked to win, and that he thought he would leave no reasonable and legal means untried to win his case. Both sides were in earnest, the one for, the other against, the bill, and he supposed both sides had availed themselves of all the lawful means within their reach to accomplish their object.

Mr. Grover then discussed the merits of the bill, and gave his reason for opposing it. He said, first, it is a parallel road, notwithstanding the report of the committee, and pointed out the various ways in which it would become a parallel and competing road with the Rutland and Washington road. He said no charter for parallel roads should be granted, for the reason that parallel roads interfered with vested rights, and unless some good reasons could be given why the charter for this parallel road should be granted, it should be rejected on general principles.

Pending the discussion, on motion of Mr. Allen, adjourned.

SENATE.

THURSDAY, NOV. 12.

Bills Introduced and referred.—By Mr. Dewey, empowering the wardens of any parish of the Protestant Episcopal Church of Vermont to hold and convey real estate; to committee on judiciary.

HOUSE.

Unfinished Business.—H. 6, to authorize the Bennington & Rutland railroad to extend its road to West Rutland, was taken up, Mr. Grover of Wells, having the floor.

Mr. Grover proceeded to review the arguments that had been presented in favor of the passage of the bill. First, that the Rutland & Saratoga road is a sound, grasping, foreign corporation, attempting to destroy the Bennington & Rutland road, and destroy the business interests of the county of Rutland and Bennington, and the whole State. He referred to the map, and pointed out the various roads in interest in this bill, and gave a history of the charters of the various roads centering in Rutland; that the interests of the Rutland & Saratoga road and the Rutland & Washington road are identical, as they were now virtually owned and run by the Rutland & Saratoga road; that the competition between the Rutland & Saratoga road, and the Bennington & Rutland road for the through business had been diligent in their attempts to obtain the business to the disadvantage and injury of the other; that the Rutland & Washington road was a Vermont road, built and owned by Vermont men, with Vermont money, and entitled to the same consideration from the Legislature as the Bennington & Rutland road, owned by the gentleman from Bennington; that the Rutland & Washington road was for a time, nearly or quite ruined by the competition of the Bennington & Rutland road; that while in this condition, the managers of the Rutland & Saratoga road came to their relief, made such arrangements with the connecting roads at Rutland as drew the business over to that road instead of its passing over the Bennington & Rutland road; that by this arrangement business had been greatly facilitated along the line of the Rutland & Washington road; that this was affected by the arrangement with the Troy and Boston road, of which we have heard so much, and that was the kind of arrangement of which so much had been said.

The speaker said that he supposed those living on the line of the Rutland and Washington road had as good a right to seek to secure to their road the through business as had the people on the line of the Bennington and Rutland road. He then referred to the argument that had been made, in relation to the break in the connection of the Bennington and Rutland road, by the Troy and Boston road, and the action that had been had by reason of that break. The legislature had granted the relief by granting a charter for a new road by the way of Lebanon Springs, to connect with the Rutland & Saratoga road, and thence south to New York. That gave the remedy, and he, as a member of the legislature, voted for the road, and voted for bonding the towns, although he thought it not wise. The Rutland and Washington road is dependent, for an outlet, on the same Troy and Boston road, of which the gentleman from Bennington complained so much; and he thought that now that the legislature had granted relief to the Bennington and Rutland road, he hoped they would not now turn round and virtually destroy the Rutland and Washington road, by allowing the Bennington and Rutland road to connect on their road and take away their business, crippling their road and injuring the business along the line of the Rutland and Washington road.

Mr. Grover then referred to the application that was made last year for the charter of a road to compete with the Bennington and Rutland road. Mr. Grover then compared the reasons that had been presented for this new charter, by the applicants, with the reasons that had been given against it, by the remonstrants; saying that so far as appears, the application is for the benefit of a single individual—Mr. Baxter—while there were five firms of prominent marble quarry owners who remonstrated against it. He then argued that the charter should not be granted unless it could be shown that it is a public necessity. That individual interests should not be allowed to override public necessities. That the laws are now amply sufficient to enable Mr. Baxter to obtain relief from the grievances of which he complains; and that it was not necessary to legislate in such a manner as to break down or cripple a great public enterprise, for the sake of giving relief to certain individuals.

He then appealed to the House to consider this matter before passing any special legislation; but if grievances exist which ought to be remedied, apply to the matter general laws that should be applicable to all cases, and not single out individual instances and endeavor to apply a remedy to that particular case, leaving all similar grievances to fester and trouble the body politic. He then referred to the matter of the natural business centers, like Rutland village where the roads all centered,—built in good faith by the different railroad corporations,—and said that any breach of good faith on the part of the State in granting charters for parallel and competing roads, would be a breach of vested rights, and ought not to be countermanded by the Legislature.

On motion of Mr. Hall, Grover, adj. Life has few charms for the Dyspeptic, which is not to be wondered at when we take into the account the amount of bodily and mental suffering that this distressing malady generates. The Paruvian Syrup (a proteolite of Iron) has cured thousands who were suffering from this disease.

Renne's Pain-Killing Magic Oil is sold by most of our Druggists and Merchants, and has become a standard article in market. This position it has won by its merit. It is clean to use. It cures pain where it is used faithfully, and we intend always to keep it in the house to use. Try it.

110 LISPENARD ST., NEW YORK, October 13, 1867. DEAR SIR:—It is with much pleasure that I say to you that I consider the Plant Bitters of untold value. In the fall of 1867 I was taken with Chills and Fever, with the most severe pains in my chest and head. It was with great difficulty that I could breathe, my lungs were greatly distressed, and there was a pain in my right side, by spells I could hardly get up from bed. I called a Doctor, who attended me all winter without the least benefit. About the first of August I commenced using your Plantation Bitters—a wine-glass full three times a day—and have used it most of the time since, and I am now well and strong, able to do all my own work and the care of a large family.

Yours, &c. SUSAN WILSON.
